For Clerk of the Circuit Court,
E. MCLELLAN,
For Sheriff,
MARTIN FORSTMAYER,
For State's Attorney,
JOSEPH BROWN,
For Coroner,
DR. CASS CHENOWETH.

Be sure to vote early.
See that your Republican neighbor is brought to the polls, if he is sick or disabled.
Vote for Martin Forstmayer, the poor man's friend.
Turn out to-night, to the torchlight procession. See order of procession in another column.
GRANT said to Sheridan at a critical moment in the Shenandoah valley, "push things." That's what republicans want to do to-morrow.
A Paxton, Ill., dispatch announces that Peter Cooper tickets with Tilden electors are being circulated throughout the state.
To-morrow will be an important day. Let every Republican do his duty.
Vote for McClellan, the best circuit clerk in Illinois.
Vote for Martin Forstmayer, for sheriff. He has done much for Decatur and Macon county, and never got any day for it, either.
Vote for Dr. Brown, for county attorney. He is in every way qualified for the position.
Remember, all ye Germans of Democratic principles, that the party with which you have cast your lot caricatures and belittles your countrymen, who happen to be a candidate on the Republican ticket.
Give 14 votes each for Thomas J.
Abel and Wm. L. Chambers, for representatives. They were both good soldiers, and are both deserving men; besides, there is a United States Senator to elect.
Look out for fraudulent tickets.
Democrats are just now prying about honesty and reform, but they are up to all sorts of dodges, nevertheless. The "old Adam" of ancient democracy is still in them, notwithstanding they profess to have embraced the doctrines of "reform."
Bear in mind, ye old-time Republicans, who voted twice for Lincoln and twice for Grant, and who intend to vote for Hayes to-morrow, that the Democratic party of Macon county proclaims on its transparencies that "An honest Republican is an impossibility." Bear this in mind when you are solicited by Democratic candidates for your votes.
In every single instance in which a measure has come before Congress designed to strengthen the public credit, the Democratic party has done its best to defeat it. It takes to repudiation as natural as a duck to water. It opposes all honest measures of finance simply because the Republican party favors them.

THE OUTLOOK.

In view of the great and general interest felt in the result of the election to-morrow we have compiled a few statistics which may be of interest to the public. The number of votes in the electoral college being 360, the successful candidates must receive 185 votes, being a majority of one whole.
It may be regarded as absolutely certain that Tilden and Hendricks will secure the following

Alabama,	10	Missouri,	15
Arkansas,	8	Tennessee,	12
Delaware,	3	Texas,	8
Georgia,	11	Virginia,	11
Kentucky,	12	W. Virginia,	5
Maryland,	8	Total,	109
Mississippi,	8

It may also be set down as certain that Hayes and Wheeler will carry the following

California,	6	Maine,	5
Colorado,	3	Nebraska,	5
Illinois,	21	New Hampshire,	3
Iowa,	11	Ohio,	23
Kansas,	5	Pennsylvania,	23
Maine,	7	Rhode Island,	4
Massachusetts,	11	Vermont,	3
Michigan,	11	Wisconsin,	10
Total,	140

This computation leaves the following States in doubt.
Connecticut, 6 New Jersey, 9 Florida, 6 New York, 35 Indiana, 15 N. Carolina, 10 Louisiana, 8 Oregon, 3 Nebraska, 5 S. Carolina, 7
Total, 100

It will be seen from the above that while Tilden will have to secure 76 votes out of the ten doubtful states, in order to reach a majority, Hayes will only have to secure 25, so that the chances of the latter are three times as good as those of the former.
If Tilden should carry both Indiana and New York, he would still lack one more vote than Hayes, and their relative chances would still be even. If Hayes should carry New Jersey, North Carolina, and Louisiana or South Carolina, he would have more than enough. Other computations of possibilities can easily be made from the above tables.

All the states in the doubtful column gave majorities for Grant in 1872.
All of them gave democratic majorities at the elections last held, except Florida, Louisiana and South Carolina.

Of the states placed in the Hayes column, all gave republican majorities at their last state elections, except California and Illinois, and all cast their votes for Grant in 1872, except Colorado, which is a new state.

The states placed in the Tilden column all gave democratic majorities at their last elections, and the following of them voted for Grant in 1872: Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Mississippi, and the two Virginias.

If Hayes should succeed in carrying New York, with its 35 votes, (of which their now seems to be every probability) the agony will be soon over, and the result speedily known, but if Tilden carries that and one or two more of the doubtful states the issue will be close, and it may require days to determine the result.

At present, however, the prospects are good for a republican victory, if the men who believe in republican doctrines will but do their duty to-morrow.

TILDEN is a master of phrases, having learned the art when practicing as a technical lawyer. He knows precisely what word to use when he desires to convey his meaning or leave a loophole out of which to crawl. His recent letter threatening to veto Southern Democratic claims is a case in point.
Mr. Blaine in his Chicago speech was the first to detect the sharp trick in phrasing that Tilden practiced in his War-domin letter, and point out the great difference between the phrases debts or obligations "incurred" or "suffered." The Fourteenth Amendment prohibits the payment of any debt or obligation "incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States." Had it gone a step further, and forbidden the payment of any war losses "suffered by disloyal persons," the threatened mischief would have been prevented. Unfortunately it did not, and Mr. Tilden was sharp to note the fact and take advantage of it. All through his letter he carefully preserves the distinction between the words "incurred" and "suffered." The latter word he does not use, but speaks everywhere of "losses incurred." He never promises to veto claims for "losses suffered." The difference between "incurred" and "suffered" is the difference between "agent" and "victim," between losses brought on by oneself and losses inflicted by another. There is nothing in Tilden's letter in conflict with Riddle's bill to pay Confederate claims for "losses."

CHICAGO, November 4.—At a meeting of the Bar Association to-day, a resolution was introduced recommending the appointment of a committee of thirteen to investigate the conduct of Judge McAllister in connection with the recent Sullivan murder trial. After some debate, the majority, but not without considerable opposition, thinking that action at this time would prejudice the second trial of the defendant, decided that action on the resolution be postponed indefinitely.

WHAT A WOMAN SAYS.

DECATUR, Ill., Nov. 4 1876 DEAR EDITOR: I have been out of town. Now I know there is nothing wonderful, beautiful, sensational or even strange in that, and I do not expect any one of your numerous readers to "shuffle off this mortal coil" when they peruse the sentence, "and so I suppose they will cut it out, preserve it with indefatigable care, guard it with tenderness, and finally dying "bequeath it as a rich legacy unto their issue." I do not expect Moody will take it for a text, or that Mark Twain will choose it for the title of his next new book. I do not imagine it will exercise a very great influence over the elections or the price of pork. The Democrats will be the same unformed reformers as of old, and will continue to date upon the grand qualities of the patriotic and courageous Tilden who fought his country's battles in his law office, safe behind the breastwork of law books, and "cares" overflowing with sympathy for the South, but not man enough to come boldly out and taking up the cudgel of war fight if he be, and "die if he must, for the cause his heart espoused. But instead, coward-like, remained at home, growing rich in the land he hoped to see vanquished. A rebel we might forgive, but a dastard, never!

from this week, while there is no doubt Tweed will be delivered to the New York State authorities, immediately on his arrival. It is not probable that official correspondence on the subject will be published before the meeting of congress. When the Spanish government informed the government of the U. S. of Tweed's arrest, and its readiness to surrender him, in accordance with the wishes of our government, the American legation was instructed to conduct arrangements to that end.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., November 4.— Hon. M. W. Gibbs, Elector at-large on the Republican ticket, was grossly in-sulted yesterday while en route to Fort Smith to address a Republican meeting.
As soon as he entered the dining-room, seventeen white men arose from the table and demanded that he be expelled. After some words with the pro-prio, Mr. Gibbs was compelled to leave the dining room and go without dinner.

RICHMOND, Nov. 4.—Midnight—Governor Kemper has just issued a proclamation stating that information has just been received that detachment of the United States army has been this day quartered at Petersburg, under orders to remain until after election, to be under the direction of the federal officers. The governor says the troops are introduced with the design of intimidating the people and controlling the pending election for partisan purposes, and characterizes the act as a flagrant assumption of ungranted authority, designed to incite domestic violence, which is falsely pretended to threaten. He enjoins upon all, such moderation and self-denying forbearance as will preclude the possibility of any disturbance of the public peace.

THE Danbury News states that New Haven marched a procession of thirty tramps to the guard house last week, and a mistaken democratic editor came out in the next morning's issue with "another great rally for reform."

In many of the large cities business men have agreed to close their stores and offices on election day, in order to allow themselves and employees an opportunity to work for Hayes and Wheeler. It is a solemn fact that the thoughtful business men of the country are almost unanimously opposed to the election of Tilden. They tremble for the safety of the country under demo-

WASHINGTON, November 5.—The President has accepted the invitation of the Centennial commissioners to formally close the exhibition on the 10th. He will be accompanied to Philadelphia by the members of his Cabinet.

Contrary to prevailing reports, no correspondence has recently passed between the government of the United States and Great Britain, concerning the extradition treaty. The is no serious subject of controversy between the United States and Spain, the latter having in a spirit of friendship acceded to the views of the former the trial of American citizens in the island of Cuba, accused of crime, before civic tribunals.

DEATH OF GEN. GILES A. SMITH.

A telegram from Bloomington announces the death of Gen. Giles A.
Smith, which occurred at that place yesterday. The funeral will take place on Wednesday, at 2 P. M.

The deceased was well known to many of our citizens, and scores of our Macon county soldier boys were under him, when he commanded a brigade in the 15th army corps, of which the 116th regiment was a part. He afterwards commanded a division in the 17th corps, and was a most gallant officer. After the war he was he was appointed Second assistant Postmaster-General—a position which he resigned on account of ill health. He then went to California, and engaged in farming, located at or near San Jose. He returned to his old home at Bloomington about two months ago, with a view of going south to spend the winter, but that dire disease—consumption, had fastened itself upon him, and he gradually succumbed to its attack. He was a brave soldier, a splendid gentleman, an enterprising business man and a faithful friend.

DON'T trade votes with anybody. All that is necessary for a complete Republican victory is for every member of the party to vote the whole ticket.

TILDEN as HE IS.—The Indianapolis Journal says: A leading jeweler of New York city, doing business in Maiden Lane, writes a business and friendly letter to a merchant in that city, in which he says: "All I ask of you in return for anything I have or may do for you, is to vote as you fought—for Hayes—and not turn this government over to rebels who to-day would intima-date the poor Southern voter, both white and black, by fire and sword. Besides, this d—d Tilden is the most absolute fraud that was ever offered the American people for a conspicuous station, and his brothers, Henry and Moses, plead usury and fought men our courts to escape the payment of their own notes of hand for money lent them at their own request. And Samuel J. Tilden is the worst of the three brothers. I know of what I write."
